QUICK GUIDE · GOOGLE CAST

Play Tonada with Google Cast

Send your music from the Tonada app to a TV or a Chromecast. The Cast device plays the music, and your phone is the remote control.

HOW IT CONNECTS

Your phone
With the Tonada app

WI-FI
The same network

Your Cast device
A TV or a Chromecast

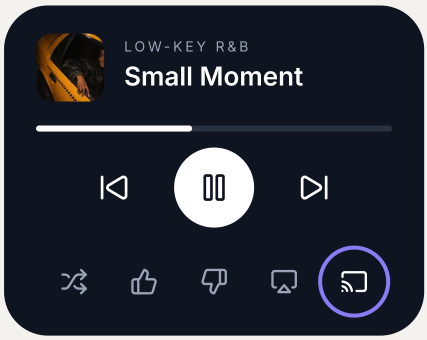

STEP 1 OF 4

1 Start your music

Open the Tonada app and start your music.

Tap the player bar at the bottom of the screen to open the full player.

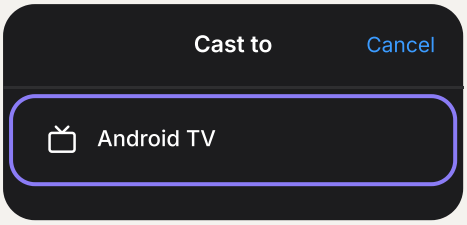

STEP 2 OF 4

2 Tap the Cast icon

The Cast icon is the last icon in the row below the play button.

On an iPhone, the app asks for access to your local network the first time. Allow it.

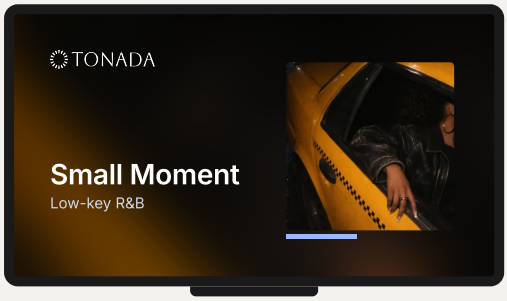

STEP 3 OF 4

3 Choose your device

A list with the title Cast to opens.

Tap your TV or Chromecast.

STEP 4 OF 4

4 Check the TV

The music moves from your phone to the Cast device.

The TV shows the track, the vibe and the cover.

To stop, tap the Cast icon again and stop casting.

GOOD TO KNOW

|---|---|
| Your phone is the remote control | Play, pause and skip in the Tonada app. You can lock your phone. |
| On an iPhone, open the app now and then | The Cast device holds the next 30 tracks. Open the app before they end. |
| Set the volume with the TV remote | On an Android phone, the volume buttons of the phone work too. |

TROUBLESHOOTING

Quick fixes

Your device is not in the list?

Check that it is switched on and on the same Wi-Fi as your phone.

The track does not start on the TV?

Press play in the Tonada app again.

The music stopped after a long pause?

Google closes the cast after 20 minutes of pause. Tap the Cast icon again.
